Virtual Center Now a Reality

Two years of discussion and work through a public-private partnership saw the Boeing Virtual Manufacturing Center become a reality at today's Opening Ceremony. With an audience of Boeing executives and federal, state, and local officials donning 3-D glasses, the new high-tech tool made its public debut.

Project Report: No Slow Down Soon

September expects to see the repainting of the Horton Building, erection of a new salt bin, and cleanup of the last remaining land owned by the U.S. Air Force in Heath. The projects will be visible for the rest of this year's construction season and, undoubtedly, will also be disruptive to on-Base personnel.
