Community Capitalism Forums

Spark a community discussion. That was the advice given by a business retention expert about how to use the new book Community Capitalism: Lessons from Kalamazoo and Beyond to get people in Licking County thinking about a better future. The Port Authority bought over 1,000 books and two more forums are set for tonight (Nov. 18) at 4 p.m. and tomorrow (Nov. 19) at 7 p.m. at C-TEC to talk about Licking County's version of Community Capitalism. Also, find the discussion online at The RePORT AUTHORITY, an online blog, and at <http://lc3network.com>, a networking forum on LinkedIn.

Alert: Black Ice Time is Here

For the first time this season, the bridge pavement temperature has dropped below 32 degrees. Combined with wet pavement, the conditions are right for the "black ice." With over one million s.f. of paved area here at The Base, it's impossible to police every inch of pavement for this often invisible condition. To avoid falls, be on alert! The snow kit has the bridge temperature as well as information and links for the safety-conscious person this snow season.

Projects Continue

The Base's new salt bin accepted its first supply of salt last week and is ready to do its thing. The Air Force clean up project is nearing the half-way point as the first of three soil-removal cells has been tackled. Roof repairs following Hurricane Ike storm damage have been completed. Work on the Boeing Navy project is also underway. Lastly, public bids are being sought on the James Parkway extension project.
