FeelTheImpact.com Goes Live

The Port Authority-led $2.9 million roadway and bridge project is now well underway with initial site preparations becoming visible in the last two weeks. The downturn in the economy gives a reason for the local economic impact of this bridge project to be tracked more than normal. A special website tracking the project, its elements, and the local "Made by Licking County" aspect of the project are online at FeelTheImpact.com.

D.C. Fly-in Wrap Up

The 10-person delegation that represented The Base in Washington is back after a day in D.C. Photos and a summary of the day serve as a wrap-up to a productive day with two members of Congress and staffs of those and five others.

Get LinkedIn to Community Capitalism

The Port Authority continues to work with the Licking County Chamber and Licking County Planning in encouraging a grassroots approach to improving our community for the better of our local economy. The next phase of the grassroots movement is underway with a series of project-specific meetings organizing behind the key issues identified. A LinkedIn networking page has been set up to continue the discussion online and keep on top of opportunities for involvement.
