Duck Derby Launches Next Weekend

Get your lucky number! The first-ever Heath Duck Derby launches at 2 p.m. on Sunday, October 25 at Hoback Park. The event benefits United Way and is a joint effort of Kaiser, City of Heath, AIS, and the Port Authority.

Column: A Ducky Demo Project

When the Duck Derby was announced, the newspaper actually had to run a front-page correction. The ducks to be launched are rubber ducks. Key point. The Port Authority Weekly Column hopes to put some news straight from the duck's mouth about the café/COM demolition project about to get underway and the future of the patio.

Projects: Marquees, Lights, Etc.

A full week under their belt now, the new digital marquees are performing to rave reviews. The Project Report includes the status on gate systems, fencing, and entrance lighting too.

Sign Up for New Alert System

It's amazing how few people have signed up for the new Alert System. It's amazing for two reasons. For one, it's free. Secondly, this is a chance to get an alert via text message of some breaking news or safety or emergency item.
