Horton Building Complete

Goodrich personnel move from the attic of the warehouse and the old fire station at the Aerospace Center campus into the new confines of the Horton Building tomorrow, exactly one year to the day from the start of construction of the new building. A formal ribbon cutting and building dedication ceremony is set for July 13.

Plaza Set to Open Soon

The plaza outside the Horton Building and Building 4 on the Aerospace Center campus will open by mid July. The plaza replaces the former patio area and already looks ready to meet the Port Authority's goal of having a comfortable, yet stylistic venue which all Aerospace Center employees would consider a big contributor to their quality of work life. The plaza will be finished out with Ohio native plants sourced from local nurseries as part of a new Dawes Arboretum Sustainable Sites initiative.

Clean Room Nears Completion

Western Environmental, the design-build contractor for the speculatively-built, Class 10,000 clean room in the Horton Building, is expected to wrap up construction by early July. The 1,000 s.f. clean room is available for lease along with an associated office suite.
