15/50 Event Takes Off Saturday

Great 70+ degree weather with sun has been ordered up by the Port Authority. The tent and stage are here. What awaits this Saturday, October 8, is a great time to reflect on the past, embrace the present, and take a glimpse at the future all in one place on one day. The event starts at 12:30 and runs through 4:30.

Please join U.S. Senator Sherrod Brown and other dignitaries in a ceremony that starts at 11:30. We'll be recognizing long-serving employees and the folks who arrived here for Day One back in 1962. And, oh, the stories!

A guide to the day and map with directions are online. Join us!

Tours

For many, a stop into Building 4 will be the first time ever. For many, the stop will be the first time in a long time. Either way, it's a chance to look at the amazing new things happening inside the building, including the Boeing 3D virtual reality lab and new workloads as well as Bionetics' new capabilities welcomed in recent years. The tour opportunities also include Goodrich's new space in the new Horton Building, the new Dawes Arboretum-inspired plaza, and a tour of the entire campus via golf cart.

Family-Friendly Activities

Under the big tent where everything begins, Bionetics, AFMETCAL, Goodrich, Boeing, and the local chapter of NARFE will be underway with family-friendly activities. Relive the Flaky Follies and reminisce with retirees. Expect a little science too, including The Works science show presented on the stage at 1:30 and 2:30. Boeing will be setting off model rockets (don't worry, they use water) and the Heath Fire Dept. will be showing off fire safety. Heath's nationally-famous hot rod police car will be there too!

And More!

Sit and mingle with generations of workers past and present as part of a Velvet Ice Cream ice cream social with complimentary ice cream and lemonade. Enjoy local food vendors too.
